

NEW MASTERS DEGREE AT THE NAVAL POSTGRADUATE SCHOOL

SECURITY BUILDING in Post Conflict Environments

2002 - 2003

WHAT IS IT? A unique, first-ever program that will:

- :: Enhance U.S. security cooperation with countries in the world.
- :: Provide post-conflict countries with the necessary “tools” to assist in defense restructuring efforts (such as civil-military relations) and to ensure economic and political stability.
- :: Promote regional stability and coalition development in conflict areas—Middle East, Southwest and Southeast Asia, Africa, the Balkans, Central and Latin America, among others.

In sum, the Security Building program is designed to help the U.S. and its allies maintain peace long after their military forces have returned home.

HOW WILL COUNTRIES BENEFIT FROM THE SECURITY BUILDING PROGRAM?

The dynamic 15-month Masters Degree program will equip participants (military and civilians from post-conflict nations, countries that are assisting them, international organizations, and NGOs) with:

- :: Specialized expertise and skills, such as problem solving, strategic planning, conflict resolution, Decision-making, and others in building effective security institutions.
- :: Understanding of the dynamics of international politics, such as, how to work international political organizations, NGOs, United Nations during crisis, the United States, and others.
- :: Understanding of “how best” to deal with today’s challenges—military operations in largely civilian environments in peacekeeping and stability operations, counter-terrorism, counter-drugs, and many others.
- :: Shared knowledge and experience with their “international” counterparts from countries within their region and elsewhere, U.S. and its allies, NGOs, United Nations, and many others. The “mix” of non-government and governmental participants is found nowhere in the world!
- :: Gain “new” insights and “new” perspectives in how best to manage the political, economic, and security challenges within their country.

WHAT WILL PARTICIPANTS LEARN?

Sample lecture topics include: Civil-military relations :: Information technology management :: Strategies for building consensus :: International law and organizations :: War and its impact on post-conflict reconstruction :: Economic development
